

Peter joined the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory in 2021 as Head of the Safeguards & Security and Emergency Services Division and currently serves as the Insider Threat Program Senior Official, the Facility Security Officer, and the LITWG coordinator.

Retiring after a 22 year career as an FBI Special Agent and Supervisor in the FBI's New York Office, Peter leveraged his experience as a former nuclear field engineer in the commercial nuclear power industry to revitalize the New York FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force's Nuclear Site Security program, and he worked closely with the DOE's Radiological Assistance Program as a responder and investigator for the 9/11 terrorist attacks in New York City.
